SKILFUL FISHERMEN WHO OVERCOME THE COY TROUT.

SECRETARY NOBLE'S SUCCESS-DANCES, TENNIS AND BASEBALL AMONG THE AMUSEMENTS OF THE NORTH WOODS-READY FOR

THE HUNTING SEASON. Dent Smith's, Aug. 8 (Special).—Balls, tennts tourns die church fairs and rifle matches helped to enter tain visitors at the various hotels through the woods ng the week. The speckled trout lie low these August days and won't bite readily. The angler can feed them artificial flies, worms, bugs and other tempting things. It is of no use. They nod skepily and let the angler work his hardest, never a strike. This is the literal truth about the trout situation in the Adirondacks this week. And for this reason R. Delafield, of New-York, a guest at Algonquin, deserves credit for killing a full twoder. He happened to meet this handsome fish when it was in the "mood" for an angle worm. The st speckled trout reported at Paul Smith's weighed Another trout of this kind was and dead in one of the lakes. It weighed over seven ands. Among the distinguished fishermen is Secretary Noble. On Tuesday he returned to the Algon-quin with a catch of fine brook trout, though there were no five-pounders in his bashet. Secretary and Mrs. Noble are taking solid comfort in the woods, and this genial gentleman appears not in the least perturbed by the efforts of the rumor mongers to put him on the list of resigned Cabinet officers. At present he signed only to the pleasures and the rest which finds in the North Woods.

A week from to-day the deer season opens, though nds are not allowed until some time in September. Guides and sportsmen are getting their rifles and camp equipment in order ready for a campaign against the monarchs of these forests. The deer are plenty. One report has it that sixteen were seen all in a bunch on one of the lakes. At Saranac Inn the guests were amazed to see a wild spotted fawn dash across the hotel grounds and jump into Upper Saranac Lake. The guides about could have caught the animal easily, but the law prohibited them from doing so.

While over Keene Valley way Secretary Noble caught 109 trout in one day's fishing. A guide from Upper Saranac Lake recently brought in 500 trout claimed to have been taken with rod and line The fair at Paul Smith's announced for August 14

samp on Birch Island. Mr. Morton made a flying visit to Saratoga and Rhinebeck this week. A boating feature on Upper Saranac Lake is Mr. Hague's new steam launch. It is of hardsome model and elaborate furnishings. One of the notables in the woods is the ex-chef of the late William H. Vanderbilt-the $10,000 man. This chef has the appearance of a retired banker and is ompanied by a family of fine-looking sons and taughters. The situation was rather unique for of the relatives of Mr. Vanderbilt as they observed their faithful servant at a neighboring table in the hotel Grand trotting rates are announced for August 19 and 20 at the Lake Placid Driving Park. Charles E. Martin, of the Mirror Lake House, and J. A. Stevens, of the Stevens House, are officers of this racing association. They promise good sport. The purses are such as to extract the blooded stock of this country.

While the charity ball at Paul Smith's on Auesday was not as large as the annual charity dance in New-York, yet it lacked little in brilliancy. The company of distinguished ladies and gentlemen gathered on the wheres of St. Regis for sweet charity's sake would have nor to any ballroom in the world. The silks, satins, laces, diamonds and fine clothes generally made the woodsmen's eyes stick out with wonderment at the fortunes thus displayed. Some of the ladies went so far as to send to the city safe deposit companies for their boxes of fewels. Paul Smith beamed on his

NO SPECULATION IN LENGT LANDS.

Lenox, Mass., Aug. 8 (Special).—The cottagers are pleased because the land of the Lenox and Stockbridge Land Company has been taken possession of by the trus-tion. The signs advertising the property for sale have all been taken down. What disposition is to be made of the property does not yet appear. Various rumors are affont in regard to it. Several men have been looking at the property to it. Several men have been looking at it with a view to purchasing it if possible. There are others who have been looking at different pertions of the with a view to its being sold in lots adapted to entages. These farms, mostly about Stockbridge Bowl, in all about 500 acres, were purchased some years ago by this corporation, which paid a good price for it. The object of the purchase was to sell it at a large advance to wealthy people for building sites, but for some reason sales could not to made. There was at one time talk about putting up a large summer hotel on the east side of the Ktockbridge Bowl, to cost about $500,000, but there was so much opposition to it among the cottagers that nothing was done sitted to it among the fluest places for cattages are the

Fairchild farm, on the west side of the lake, and the A GREAT WEEK AT SARATOGA Williams property, adjoining it. There is also the Sayles property on the east side of the lake, adjoining a large tract belonging to David Dudley Field. There are other summer fine places that would make elegant sites for summer residences. Now that this property has passed out of the hands of the speculators, and into the hands of the trustees, who will act for the best interests of Lenox and Stock bridge, it is expected that the property will be improved and when sold will pass into the hands of those who will be congenial to the cottagers who already own places here

ROUND LAKE WORK.

IMPORTANT NEW FEATURES ADDED.

MINISTERS' INSTITUTE-ART SCHOOL-THE MAN-

AGEMENT. Round Lake, Aug. 8 (Special).—One Important growth of the present session of the theological schools here has been the permanent establishment of a Ministers' Institute. Until this summer a ministers' institute has been a sort of annex to the Sunday School Assembly, but under the dominant influence of Bishop Newman this year and by his personal exertions the Ministers' Institute has become a chief feature, which his discourse on practical homiletics has even rendered popular and interesting to laymen as well as students and ministers. Probably fifty or more students and ministers have been accustomed to attend here during a two or three weeks' vacation, to hear disquisitions on Hebrew, Greek and the English translation of the Bible, but not until this year have they encountered the very practical lessons which the Bishop has instituted. It was out of these that grew the desire for an extension of the system, and on Wednesday the Bishop, Drs. Buttz and Strong, the eminent Greek and Hebrew scholars; Dr. Griffin, the president of Round Lake, and others of the ministers among the trustees, got together and drew up a plan of a permanent Ministers' Institute. It is to be called the Drew Ministers' Institute, in honor of the theological seminary from which Drs. Buttz and Strong came, and it will include eight departments, including the study of the sacred languages, sacred archaeology. sacred law, sacred eloquence and practical homiletics and will in future be a regular annual feature of the Round Lake summer school. It is proposed to ob taln the most thorough instruction in these departments. Bishop Foster is expected to take part in the general scheme, and Bishop Newman will conducthe department of ecclesiastical law. Another part of this programme is a system of honors to the young ministers attending, under which those highest in their studies shall be chosen for what is deemed a very great honor as well as a very severe ordeal-to Bishop John P. Newman is well known throughout the Nation, but those only who have sat under his ministrations or have had the pleasure of his personal acquaintance know the pure literary qualities of the man, the learning, the zeal, the executive ability in a meeting. Last Sunday he brought an immense congregation and fully fifty ministers to their feet while The ministers alone were required to sing the impressive old hymn, "Is It Well with My Soul!" and to express in Scriptural text how they feel it to be with them.

Another feature of Round Lake which will be im proved next season, although it is now in admirable condition, will be the art school. Professor William J. Baer, of New-York, closed his term here for this year on Friday. He will visit Munich during the winter and return to his school here again next summer, with the purpose, heartily seconded by the trustees, of natural scenery in the neighborhood is of the most varied character and full of historical interest; and next year a system of straw rides and buckboard conveyances will be established to convey the art students wherever necessary to find some especially desired colgn of vantage. The head waters of the Hudson present their dashing currents, tortured into foam by thousands of rocky islands, capes and promontories, on one hand, and the calm sistver ribbon of the Eric Canal, esteemed so wrongly the most prosaic of artifi-cial institutions, winds in beauty through most delicious Canal, esteemed so wrongly the most prosale of artificial lustitutions, winds in beauty through most delicious vales under arching oaks and elims and along the edges of delightful little hamlets, on the other hand; and each but a few miles away. Professor Baer is himself engaged at present on a canal scene, which he is to entitle "Dolec far niente," which delienates one of the most picturesque parts of the Eric Canal. In addition to these natural advantages, the West Museum, with an art gallery that is second in equipment only to those in the greatest cities, and with spacious verandas offering shelter and view in stormy weather, presents a chance at indoor or rainy-day study that cannot be surpassed in any summer school in the State. A larger lis of art lectures will also be arranged for, although there were a number of excellent discourses by such technical musters as Louis Frater, Mrs. H. C. Farrar, and Professor Baer himself during the session just passed. Among the pupils in Mr. Baer's class this summer were a number from New-York and Brooklyn; some were advanced and some only vt in the rudiments, but all showed great improvement and expressed themselves as anxious to continue their stadies next year.

The executive management of this large domain, with a population in it of 2,500, is in the hands of John D. Rogers—d captain who carned honors at Gettysburg—who has been superintendent for over seventeen years, from the time the grounds were occupied only by camp-meeting tents. His duties are diversified. He keeps the peace, superintends repairs, cleaning, laying out of new parks and lots, enforces the regulations, prepares the halls for coming exercises, and is nothing loath to lead in a hymn or to exhort. The captain's efficiently in the school of the police, having served as a police officer in Troy for a number of years, has had lie effect in a most beneficial way by rendering it an unknown thing to find a tramp or a disreputable character in Round Lake. To him is due also the cleanliness of the grounds,
